coffee~e~ SULTAN

Story of THE ORIGINAL DELHI BLEND

It is said that a true aficionado would go to any lengths for a perfect cup of coffee. In 17th century Baba Budan smuggled seven beans of coffee from the Middle East risking his own life and crossed borders to India. That's how the religion called coffee spread out in India much before it touching the shores of Europe and America.

Some historians mentioned that Mughal Emperor Aurangzeb was extremely fond of this rich aromatic drink. But what makes any coffee truly unique is the diversity of its drinkers and their tastes. Each place demands its own unique blend and flavour; and Delhi has its own. Well, at Cafe Delhi Heights it is all about taking traditions forward and this blend that you hold in your hand has been crafted for the city of Delhi and is served in all our outlets to all our patrons. Sip the taste of the emperors.

Story of THE ORIGINAL DELHI BLEND

It is said that a true aficionado would go to any lengths for a perfect cup of coffee. In 17th century Baba Budan smuggled seven beans of coffee from the Middle East risking his own life and crossed borders to India. That's how the religion called coffee spread out in India much before it touched the shores of Europe and America. Some historians mentioned that Mughal Emperor Aurangzeb was extremely fond of this rich aromatic drink.

But what makes any coffee truly unique is the diversity of its drinkers and their tastes. Each place demands its own unique blend and flavour; and Delhi has its own. Well, at Cafe Delhi Heights it is all about taking traditions forward and this blend that you hold in your hand has been crafted for the city of Delhi and is served in all our outlets to all our patrons. Sip the taste of the emperors.
